

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

ISAAC ASUSTA,

V.

CHARLES DANIELS, et al.,

Plaintiff,

Case No. 2:22-cv-01947-APG-EJY

ORDER

Defendants.

8 On January 3, 2023, I screened plaintiff Isaac Asusta's complaint. ECF No. 3. I 9 dismissed Asusta's Fourth Amendment, Fifth Amendment, and equal protection claims with 10 prejudice, and I dismissed his due process claim without prejudice and with leave to amend. Id.
11 at 9. Asusta has filed a motion for reconsideration and a motion for an extension to file an 12 amended complaint. ECF Nos. 5, 6. Asusta asks that I reconsider dismissal of his Fifth 13 Amendment, equal protection, and due process claims.

14 A motion to reconsider must set forth “some valid reason why the court should reconsider
15 its prior decision” and set “forth facts or law of a strongly convincing nature to persuade the court
16 to reverse its prior decision.” Frasure v. United States, 256 F.Supp.2d 1180, 1183 (D. Nev. 2003).
17 Reconsideration is appropriate if the court “(1) is presented with newly discovered evidence, 18 (2) committed clear error or the initial decision was manifestly unjust, or (3) if there is an 19 intervening change in controlling law.” Sch. Dist. No. 1J v. Acands, Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 1263 (9th 20 Cir. 1993). “A motion for reconsideration is not an avenue to re-litigate the same issues and 21 arguments upon which the court already has ruled.” Brown v. Kinross Gold, U.S.A., 378 F.Supp.2d 22 1280, 1288 (D. Nev. 2005).

1 A. Fifth Amendment Claim

2 I dismissed Asusta's Fifth Amendment claim under the Takings Clause because the 3 complaint did not allege that money was taken from Asusta's account for a public use. ECF No. 3
4 at 5-6. In his motion, Asusta argues that I should have construed the complaint as alleging that the 5 money was for a public use because it was given to Parole and Probation, a public entity. ECF No.
6 2. But the question is not whether the money is given to a public entity, but rather whether it is 7 used for a public purpose.

8 To explain the distinction, I note that when I grant Asusta's application to proceed in forma
9 pauperis in this case, money will be taken from Asusta's account, and sent to this court, a public
10 entity, to pay the $402 filing fee. The money will be sent to a public entity, but it will not be used
11 for a public purpose. Rather, it will be used to satisfy Asusta's obligation to pay the $402 filing 12 fee, a private purpose.

13 Similarly, if money is deducted from Asusta's account and transferred to Parole and 14 Probation to pay off Asusta's restitution obligation, the money is not being used for a public 15 purpose. Paying off Asusta's restitution obligation is a private purpose. Asusta alleged in the 16 complaint, and again in his motion, that the money may not have been paid to any victim and may 17 in fact have been embezzled by NDOC officials. ECF Nos. 1-1, 5. But even if this is true, the 18 money has not been taken for public use, it has been stolen. Asusta does not allege any public use 19 of the money in either the complaint, or his motion. Accordingly, I deny Asusta's request to 20 reconsider regarding this claim. However, if Asusta believes that he can state a colorable claim 21 under the Takings Clause in an amended complaint, I will consider the claim again when screening 22 the first amended complaint.

1 B. Equal Protection Claim

2 I dismissed Asusta's equal protection claim because he did not allege he was treated 3 differently from similarly situated individuals. ECF No. 3 at 6-7. In his motion, Asusta newly 4 alleges that the defendants did not apply the policy regarding restitution equally to all inmates.
5 ECF No. 5. Asusta also alleges that individuals who were sentenced to restitution but not prison
6 time did not face the same restitution policies. Id.

7 New allegations that were not include in the complaint are not a basis to reconsider whether 8 the complaint stated a colorable claim. Accordingly, I deny Asusta's request to reconsider
9 dismissing his equal protection claim. However, if Asusta believes he can state a colorable equal 10 protection claim in an amended complaint, I will consider the claim again when screening any first 11 amended complaint.

12 In the interest of judicial efficiency, I note that Asusta, as a prisoner, is not similarly 13 situated to individuals who are on parole. The allegation that prisoners and parolees are treated 14 differently does not support a colorable equal protection claim because prisoners and parolees are 15 not similarly situated. Furthermore, vague allegations that not all inmates were treated the same 16 are not sufficient to state a colorable claim. In order to support a colorable claim, Asusta must 17 allege specific facts supporting that a defendant or defendants treated him differently from 18 similarly situated individuals.

19 C. Due Process Claim

20 I dismissed Asusta's due process claim because throughout the complaint he alleged that 21 the Defendants were acting illegally and contrary to Nevada law, and Asusta cannot state a due 22 process claim based on an unauthorized deprivation of property. ECF No. 3 at 7-8. In his motion, 23 Asusta states that various Nevada regulations are in conflict. He appears to allege that the

1 defendants acted according to one statute, but that their actions were illegal under other statutes,
2 and that based on a ruling from the Supreme Court of Nevada (the final arbiter of Nevada law) the 3 defendants' actions are unconstitutional. ECF No. 5 at 4-5.

4 Based on the allegation that the Supreme Court of Nevada has found the defendants'
5 actions to be illegal, the defendants actions were unauthorized, and Asusta must pursue any claim 6 in state court. See Nev. Rev. Stat. § 41.0322 (setting forth guidelines for actions by persons in 7 custody of the NDOC to recover compensation for loss or injury). Asusta appears to argue that 8 this court is required to enforce Nevada law, as determined by the Supreme Court of Nevada. ECF 9 No. 5 at 4-5. Asusta is mistaken. If Asusta is seeking to enforce Nevada law, he must bring his 10 claims in Nevada state court. The question for this court is not whether the defendants violated
11 Nevada law, but whether Asusta has a colorable due process claim. As I have already explained, 12 an unauthorized deprivation of property does not give rise to a colorable due process claim.
13 Additionally, allegations that a defendant violated state law are not sufficient to state a claim for 14 violation of the Fourteenth Amendment's due process clause. See Swarthout v. Cooke, 562 U.S.
15 216, 222 (2011) (holding that "a 'mere error of state law' is not a denial of due process").

16 I deny the request to reconsider dismissing Asusta's due process claim. However, if Asusta 17 believes he can state a colorable due process claim in an amended complaint, I will consider the 18 claim when screening any first amended complaint.

19 D. Request for Extension

20 Asusta asks for an extension of the deadline to file a first amended complaint. ECF No. 6 21 at 5. I will give Asusta until March 31, 2023 to file an amended complaint. As stated in my 22 screening order, if Asusta fails to file an amended complaint by that deadline, this case will be 23 dismissed for failure to state a claim.

1 E. Conclusion

2 I therefore order that Asusta's motion for reconsideration (ECF No. 5) is denied.

3 I further order that Asusta's motion for an extension to file an amended complaint (ECF

4 No. 6) is granted. Asusta shall file an amended complaint by March 31, 2023. If Asusta fails

5 to file an amended complaint by March 31, 2023, this action will be dismissed for failure to state

6 a claim.
